FAQs for helpers

What is the Helping our Helpers programme?

Helping our Helpers is a programme which offers cervical cancer screenings, at no cost, for foreign domestic workers in Singapore.

Why should I participate in this programme?

Cervical cancer is almost entirely preventable with screening and vaccination.¹

As busy women, you may overlook your own health. However, by taking care of yourself and participating in programmes such as Helping our Helpers, you can continue to take care of your family. Cervical cancer is the third most common cancer affecting women in the Philippines and the second most common among women in Indonesia, India and Myanmar.²

What is a cervical cancer screening test?

Screening and early detection is one of the best ways to protect yourself against cervical cancer.

There are two types of screening tests: Pap test and a high-risk Human Papillomavirus (HPV) test. A Pap test identifies changes that have occurred in the cells of the cervix.³ However, the high-risk HPV test can indicate whether you are at risk of cervical cancer before anything abnormal shows on a Pap test.⁴

The high-risk HPV test is more sensitive than the Pap test in determining the risk for cervical cancer.⁵

This programme offers a cervical cancer screening using a high-risk HPV test, at no cost.

How is the HPV test done?

A HPV test is a simple test that is done in the same way as a Pap smear.

Will the test hurt?

A HPV test only takes a few minutes. It should not hurt, but you might feel some discomfort or pressure when your doctor or nurse opens the speculum inside you.

Will anyone know I had the test? Do I have to inform my employer or MOM?

The results are private and confidential.

What does a negative HPV test result mean?

A negative HPV test result means that your risk for cervical cancer over the next 5 years is low.⁶ By testing and knowing the result, you are able to take measures and reduce your risk of developing cervical cancer.

What does a positive HPV test result mean?

It is important to understand that testing positive for HPV does not mean you definitely have cervical cancer; however it does mean that you are at a higher risk of developing the disease.⁶

Your doctor will advise you on what to do next.

If I have a positive result, will I be able to continue working?

Yes, you will still be able to work. You will be advised on next steps and/or follow ups depending on your results.

Will I have to pay for any treatment?

Your appointment and cervical cancer screening using a HPV test will be at no cost.

However, it is important to check your coverage in case there should be a need for further treatment.

What do I have to do in preparation for the HPV test?

The following measures can be taken to ensure that the test is as sensitive as possible:

- Avoid intercourse, douching, or using any vaginal medicines or spermicidal foams, creams or jellies for two days before the test.
- Schedule your appointment after you have had your menses.

When will I get the results?

You will receive the test results within 2 to 3 weeks.
